

PERSHING OFFERS ENTIRE RESOURCES OF THE AMERICAN ARMY FOR USE ON BATTLEFRONT; FRENCH AND BRITISH HOLD THE TEUTONS

TENDER OF TROOPS IS MADE TO GENERAL FOCH; BRITISH IN SHARP COUNTER ATTACK

Tommies Maintain Positions and Gain Ground Along the Somme, Says the War Office; German Hordes Unable to Break Down the French Defense of Villages About Mont Didier; Germans Suffer Exceedingly Heavy Losses in Men

AMERICANS GIVE UP HOSPITAL BEDS TO BRITISH

By Associated Press.

The southwesterly thrust of the German wedge into the Allied line has been stopped short at Mont Didier. The enemy seems definitely held here, 57 miles from Paris, by the enclosure of the town within a pocket formed by a series of villages valiantly captured and held by French troops. Despite continuous counter attacks last night the Germans were not able to dislodge Petain's men from the hamlet on the hill about the town.

Between Mont Didier and the Somme the Germans seemed to have gained some ground since yesterday in their westward push towards Amiens, the great Allied supply base, but Paris declares the Anglo-French forces are holding the enemy firmly along a well defined line, which at no point is less than 12 miles from their objective.

The Germans continue to sacrifice their men recklessly in their desperate attempts to break the Anglo-French barrier. North of the Somme the British front has not only been stiffly maintained, but has been advanced in places.

PERSHING OFFERS U. S. TO ALLIES.

PARIS, March 29.—General Pershing called on General Foch at headquarters yesterday, according to L'Information, and placed at his disposal the whole resources of the American army for employment in the battle now in progress.

"I come," L'Information quotes General Pershing as saying, "to say to you that the American people would hold it a great honor for our troops were they engaged in the present battle. I ask it of you in my name and in that of the American people."

"There is at this moment no other question than that of fighting. Infantry, artillery, aviation, all that we have are yours to dispose of them as you will. Others are coming which are as numerous as will be necessary. I have come to say to you that the American people would be proud to be engaged in the greatest battle in history."

There have been several reports recently that General Foch, one of the most brilliant strategists of the day, who was largely responsible for the French victory in the battle of the Marne would be placed in supreme command on the western front. The Daily Chronicle of London yesterday said an announcement bearing on the coordination of British and French military exertions might be expected almost immediately and that influential role might be assigned to General Foch.

FRENCH HOLD FAST TO RECAPTURED VILLAGES.

PARIS, March 29.—Violent fighting continued last evening and last night in the region of Mont Didier, the war office announced today. In spite of German counter attacks the French held on to the villages which they took yesterday in this region. Concel was taken by French troops. North of Mont Didier French and British troops held up the German thrust. The German losses have been extremely heavy.

BRITISH TROOPS MAKE SUCCESSFUL COUNTERS.

LONDON, March 29.—On the Somme the British have maintained their positions and gained ground in places by successful counter attacks, the war office announces.

After holding their lines all day in the face of repeated assaults by numerically superior enemy forces the British retired a short distance from their advanced positions at some points. The Germans again suffered exceedingly heavy losses. The British took prisoners.

WEST FRONT OUTLOOK IS MORE CHEERFUL.

PARIS, March 29.—Reports of yesterday's operations are encouraging in two particulars, reinforcing the calm confidence which is felt here. First was the plainly marked checks with which the Germans met in their attempt to extend the battle north of Arras. The second feature is the effective and increasing reaction on the part of the allies resulting in important successes, particularly in the region of Mont Didier.

The more cheerful feeling was nowhere more evident than in the lobby of the Chamber of Deputies. Premier Clemenceau looked in there for a few minutes between two trips to the front. "I slept last night and slept well," said the Premier. "I had not done that for some time."

Louis Loucheur, minister of munitions, who also came back from the front, spoke of the situation in the most hopeful way.

BATTLE RAGES OVER FRONT OF 70 MILES.

PARIS, March 29.—The great battle is now raging over a front of more than 70 miles. This extension of the line has increased the number of German reserves engaged. Although thus far no decisive success has been obtained anywhere there is increased confidence here. The impression in semi-official circles is that the allies have not only held off the Germans but now are no longer compelled to permit the enemy by his maneuvers to shape the course which the battle shall take.

The general feeling is that for Germany the battle is virtually lost; that for the allies the battle is about to begin. The operations thus far are accepted as confirming the theory that Paris was not the main objective of the German offensive, but that the plan of the enemy was to break the connection between the French and British armies in which he has failed. His main direct attack was westward towards the sea. The Germans seek Amiens, because this town is an important railway center of communication with England. The loss of Amiens would be inconvenient but not vital.

NATURE OF FRENCH ACTIVITY IN DOUBT.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—American staff officers watching the battlefront dispatches from hour to hour were still unable today to judge whether the French counter assaults in the region between Noyon and Mont Didier was the beginning of a great counter stroke or was directed at local objectives to strengthen that portion of the French line.

WEATHER CHANGES; IS AGAINST THE KAISER.

PARIS, March 29.—The eighth day of the battle brought a change in the weather. It conditions at the front are the same as in Paris the wind shifted from the northwest to the southwest, which will prevent the Germans from using gas. Rain is falling which will make it difficult for the Germans to bring up their artillery over the ground they have acquired.

It may now be said that the French army in reserve has come into position and the numerical superiority which the Germans enjoyed in their rush is decreasing.

BRITISH WITHDRAWAL IS 'ALL OVER NOW.'

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The British withdrawal before the German advance was made according to pre-arranged plans and is "all over now," Major General J. Franklin Bell today told the Senate Military Committee. He said the allies have known of the German preparations for the present drive since noon after they were begun and made active preparations to face it. General Bell recently returned from the battle front.

GERMANS READY TO 'TEAR A NEW HOLE.'

AMSTERDAM, March 29.—The German supreme command is about to deliver a new and mighty blow on another part of the front which will "tear a new hole in the already pierced enemy ring," the Zetling of Berlin declares.

BOMBARDMENT OF PARIS IS RESUMED AGAIN.

PARIS, March 29.—The long range bombardment of Paris was resumed shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon.

GASSED AMERICANS GIVE UP COATS TO BRITISH.

PARIS, March 29.—American soldiers wounded along the Chemin de Demer are being removed from American Red Cross hospitals in Paris to make room for British soldiers injured too seriously to be moved a great distance. Twenty-seven Americans suffering from gas poisoning have reached Paris on their way to a large hospital behind the front. They were all New Englanders. One of the number, a private of Irish extraction whose home is in Bridgeport, Conn., is waiting for the time when he can get into action again. This is why:

"I was gassed on March 12 just when I expected leave for the St. Patrick's Day celebration behind the lines. The worst of it was it was yellow gas which added insult to injury."

"I believe I will be all right within a few days and God help Fritz when I can get back and get a crack at him with my machine gun."

EVERSON BOY SHOWS 'EM HE'S SOME BALL PLAYER OVER THERE

Joe O'Donnell Holds Opposing Team of Aviators to Six Hits and Fans 17 of Them.

Private Joseph M. O'Donnell of Everson, a member of the 46th Aero Squadron, is making good as a baseball player in France. O'Donnell's prowess was well known about his home town and Scotland. "Over There" he could not resist the call of the diamond and his curves are as effective as they ever were in Fayette county, according to an account of a game in "Plane News", a soldiers' paper published "every now and then". The game was between the 46th and the 57th squadron teams. The 46th won 10 to 2. "Plane News" says of it in part:

"At every stage of the game the 96th was baffled by O'Donnell's wily delivery. The little demon chalked up 17 strikeouts to his credit."

Besides this O'Donnell made two hits and one run and played an errorless game. He held the opposing team to six hits while he and his teammates were making 16. O'Donnell is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick O'Donnell of Everson. He has met a number of his home locality boys, among them "Bill" Gallagher of Connellsville. He's well and doing nicely, he says.

Miss Mary L. Gans, assistant instructor in domestic science, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Anna E. Reynolds, domestic science teacher, and Miss Ruth Moland of Oil City, was made assistant instructor. Miss Moland is a graduate of the Drexel Institute of Philadelphia. The board unanimously agreed to her election.

Miss Helen Garlock of Pomonkey, Md., was also unanimously elected to the position of supervisor of music. She will fill the vacancy that has existed since Miss Margaret Musser resigned in January. Miss Garlock is a graduate of the Department of Music at New York University. She has been teaching at South Bend, Ind.

Only one bid, that of Mullin, Briggs & Co. of Philadelphia was received for the purchase of $27,000 of bonds, which will pay off the last indebtedness on the new school building in the city. The bid was for the purchase of the bonds at a premium of $1,080. It was unanimously accepted.

BOOST MOVEMENT FOR 100,000 NEW POULTRY RAISERS

Fayette County Called Upon to Do Her Full Share Growing Chickens.

CHEAPER FEED PROMISED

Connellsville and Uniontown Men Named on Pennsylvania War Poultry Commission and Are Urging All to Aid in Increased Production.

One hundred thousand new poultry raisers in Pennsylvania this year, with Fayette county doing her full share in thus increasing the supply of meat, is the aim of the Pennsylvania War Poultry Commission, of which J. Howard Henderson of Connellsville and E. E. Enslley of Uniontown are members and county representatives.

The movement to interest people in poultry raising has been brought about through special urging by the United States government. Prominent government attaches have declared in speeches made before poultrymen that the demand for red meat is so great in foreign countries that it is possible that poultry meat will be the only kind that will be procurable next winter and that to have meat at a fair cost one must become a poultry producer. Experts also say that eggs will cost considerably more than the high water mark during the past winter.

There has been a great decrease in poultry during the past year on account of the high price of feed and the many measles days when poultry became a substitute for meat. Every one who has 20 square feet of yard space can arrange to keep a few chickens to advantage and the keeping of a small flock by every family living in suburb, town, or village will be a big help in providing the food that is necessary to maintain our men in the army and feed the people at home. Poultry raising is a movement that all women should be interested in and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is urging it.

Had Reached Agreement With Burkey, He Tells Jury

PARTED GOOD FRIENDS

Did Not Know of Murder Until Late the Next Forenoon.

BURKEY FEARED FOR LIFE

Witnesses Testify Husband of Woman to Whom He Paid Attention Had on Several Occasions Threatened His Life and Once Had Assaulted Him.

Indications late this afternoon were that Frank M. Lindley, who is accused of the murder of Frank A. Burkey, will know his fate by tomorrow night. It is believed the case will go to the jury tomorrow afternoon. On cross examination this afternoon Lindley admitted there was ill feeling between himself and Burkey.

That Frank M. Lindley and Frank A. Burkey had practically reached an agreement to settle their differences on the night before the body of Burkey was found in the offices of the Deleo Lumber company in the Second National bank building, Connellsville, was the statement of the defendant, Lindley, when called to the stand in his own defense in the trial in Uniontown today.

Burkey, he said, agreed to withdraw a suit against the defendant for embezzlement of $500 provided that Lindley sign an agreement not to take any part in a legal proceeding brought against Burkey by the Mutual Lumber company of Pittsburg.

Lindley said he was willing to sign the agreement but asked to be allowed to consult his attorney before doing so. After the conference with Burkey in the Deleo offices he and Burkey separated good friends, he said. He promised to give his answer to Burkey's proposal the next day. With the intention of consulting his counsel he went to Uniontown. After seeing Attorney D. W. McDonald he went to the courthouse where he was informed of the murder and placed under arrest.

That was the first he knew of it, he stated.

Lindley said he became acquainted with Burkey through business transactions in the Indian Creek valley in 1914. Their partnership in the Lindley-Burkey Lumber company was dissolved on January 1, 1917, and after that time the witness said, he had been employed as a salesman by Burkey on a commission basis. Lindley said he practically had charge of the business of the company. Burkey, he said, devoted much of his time to a sawmill in the Indian Creek valley. Lindley said he quit the employ of Burkey in August, 1917, to enter the employ of the Mutual Lumber company, Pittsburg.

Little that was not given in the outline of the case was presented by Lindley in his testimony. He said he and Burkey parted at 11:10 o'clock, perfectly good friends.

"I'll see you in Uniontown tomorrow," were his last words to Burkey, he testified.

"All right," Burkey replied, he said. Before he left Burkey told him, he said, that he intended to make a call. "One of those across the street, eh?" Lindley said he remarked to Burkey.

Lindley corroborated Wesley King, the elevator operator, relative to the conversation at the foot of the stairway. King was mistaken in one important detail of his story, he insisted. Instead of being 12:20 o'clock it was 11:10, he said.

Lindley told of going to the Baltimore House and so ending the night there. He arose a little late the next morning and missed the Pennsylvania but caught the Baltimore & Ohio for Uniontown, where he and Burkey were to meet to conclude the agreement. Direct examination of Lindley was concluded at 2 o'clock.

BOOST MOVEMENT FOR 100,000 NEW POULTRY RAISERS

Riciculture urges everyone who has the proper space to start a flock and have at least 10 hens during next winter.

About Connelville there has been a tendency on the part of owners of small flocks to dispose of them and quit because of the high cost of feed. Should this be general over the county and state it would be disastrous from the standpoint of food supply.

Realizing that such a state may come to pass the departments of agriculture of the state and nation have been experimenting and have worked out a ration whereby a saving of $20 a ton can be saved. It is stated. The grand drawback, serious because the hatching season is here, is that the food has not yet become available. Even if the poultrymen had the formula they would not be able to buy the ingredients in the markets at such prices as to effect the saving the government promises.

Commissioners Henderson and Endsley are hopeful, however, that before long dealers will have the ration and they are encouraging all who have space enough for a small flock—a half dozen to a dozen or more hens—to raise them and thus help tide over the food crisis confronting the nation and the world.

In order to help with the movement and to let everyone who is interested in poultry know where baby chicks and hatching eggs are purchasable in the State, the Bureau of Markets of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has prepared and published a list of poultry keepers who have close to 3,000,000 chicks for sale.

This bulletin is arranged so that the poultrymen offering chicks for sale listed by counties and persons obtaining the bulletin are able to decide where to secure chicks close to home. The chick list can be secured by writing the Department of Agriculture at Harrisburg.

OFFERINGS OF FURNACE COKE LESS RARE THAN 30 DAYS AGO

Trend is Toward An Increase;
Especially of Foundry;
Very Few Sellers.

LESS DELAY IN MOVEMENT

Coke Reaching Destinations With More Dispatch, Once Cars Are Secured, Although Emptyies Return
Slowly; Trade in Screenings Larger.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

PITTSBURGH, March 27.—Offerings of furnace coke in the open market continue to be a rarity, although they are not altogether as rare as 30 days ago. It is altogether exceptional for there to be any offerings of furnace coke except in Pittsburgh & Lake Erie cars, which are quite restricted as to points to which they can be shipped. As a rule any surplus coke an operator has can be shipped on regular contracts, though it is possible that here and there a consumer may soon find himself fully supplied.

Offerings of foundry coke have broadened somewhat, and while they are intermittent, with whole days on which there are practically no offerings, the general trend is towards an increase. In the past week there have been a few dozen Pennsylvania cars loaded with foundry coke, while hitherto the limited offerings have been almost wholly of coke loaded in Pittsburgh & Lake Erie cars. All the foundry coke offered has found ready sale and if anything inquiry has increased. As the news has spread that there is occasionally some foundry coke to be bought in the market consumers who had practically given up hope of buying any coke have been encouraged to enter the market again. There are very few sellers, the majority of foundry coke producers having more contract business than they can handle. Offerings that come into the market are largely through brokers, who frequently secure a commission from the producer, although there have been some cases of brokers turning over coke with no margin, merely as an accommodation to regular customers.

The trade notices with satisfaction that as a rule now there is little delay in the movement of coke, once cars are secured for loading. On most of the lines coke goes through to destination with considerable celerity. There is not equally good dispatch in the return of empties, and that is the chief cause, apparently, of car supplies being short at ovens. This week the Monongahela railroad started out with a 60 per cent allotment, but with hopes that somewhat better could be done towards the close of the week. For the first five days of last week the Pennsylvania had its restriction in effect, that plants in the southern end of the region could each day ship east only 50 per cent of their cars. The restriction came off for Saturday, when there were few cars to ship anywhere, and was restored for the first three days of this week. At the same time the Fuel Administration requires large shipments to be made to certain eastern munition plants and operators are giving this business the preference.

The market remains quotable at the set limits, as follows:
Furnace, 25-hour selected, $28.00
Foundry, 25-hour selected, $27.50
Crushed, over 1 1/2 inch, $27.25
There is a growing trade in coke screenings, obtained chiefly by going over dumps. This business is flourishing, with heavier shipments each week, and the material is growing in popularity. Early sales were made at $5.50, but $6.00 is now asked and paid. The material is particularly suitable for domestic use in base burners. It is generally too small for salamanders.

The local coal market has not been affected particularly by the reaffirmation of prices for the period beginning April 1. Most of the contract business had already been done, subject to any new price that might be promulgated. A little confusion was caused by the newspapers reporting the Fuel Administration's action in the form of its reaffirming last August's "basis price" of $2.00, without mentioning that this price carried with it the extra of 45 cents afterwards added. The new price carried with it the extra of 45 cents afterwards added. The new price for the Pittsburgh district are the same as the old. Slack, $1.20; mine-run, $2.45; screened, $2.70 per ton at mine.

The pig iron market has continued quiet. Shipments are heavier, but are being made on old contracts, many consumers desiring larger supplies than they have been getting. The announcement has been made that the government price on basic will be reduced from $33 to $32 after July 1, without statement that Bessemer will at the same time be reduced to keep it 10 per cent above basic. Prices hitherto ruling are as follows:

Bessemer, $36.30
Basic, $35.00
No. 2 foundry, $32.00
Malleable, $32.50
Gray forge, $32.00

These prices are f. o. b. furnace, freight from the valleys to Pittsburgh being 95 cents.

NO ALARM IS FELT IN STEEL CIRCLES OVER
WAR DEVELOPMENTS

Winning the Only Thing That Counts;
Business Activity Is Less and the Markets Continue to Be Dull.

Special to The Weekly Courier.

NEW YORK, March 27.—The American Metal Market and Daily Iron & Steel Report will review the steel and iron trade tomorrow as follows:

Interest in war developments has somewhat detracted from business activity in the iron and steel trade in the past week but no alarm is felt and the dominant feeling in the trade is

COKE TRADE SUMMARY.

Coke shipments have held above 230,000 tons per week for three successive weeks but there has not been a successive gain which the trade has been looking for as a sure sign that a permanent improvement had set in. In fact, there have been slight declines, totalling 1,047 tons during the past two weeks, that for the week ending Saturday last having been 233,537 tons as compared with 234,584 tons during the week ending March 8.

The decline is not to be taken as proof of the failure of the region to "come back," but rather as evidence of the fact that the return to normal will be by slow and steady degrees, not by leaps and bounds. The trend in every direction indicates improvement but all the essential conditions do not yet obtain. There is greater dispatch in the movement of loads to consumers, but the same facility has not yet become manifest in the return of empties.

Car supply was fairly good last week but developments and indications for the present week are not favorable, the week having begun with a 50 per cent supply, as against an 80 per cent supply on the first of last week.

The P. R. R. has reimposed its embargo on eastern shipments, requiring shipments from the Lower Connellsville region to be diverted to that quarter, indicating that the tieup on the main line has undergone no material improvement.

The offerings of furnace coke are somewhat larger, but that is only a relative term, very few producers having a surplus that cannot be applied on contracts.

that the development should convince everyone that winning the war is the only thing that counts.

Apart from government orders the pig iron and steel markets are dull as they have been for a long time past. It is not believed generally that market activity has been curtailed of late because the subject of price fixing is up in Washington for the period following March 31. What interest there has been in price revision or price confirmation has been chiefly in connection with business already on books, as all the business that has been done since the first of the year is subject to any new prices that may be promulgated before date of shipment.

Steel shipments have been increasing constantly, but they are much better in some departments than in others. Last week the tin plate mills made shipments equal to 95 per cent of a week's output at capacity, a considerable portion of the shipments being from stock. The leading pipe interest has practically normal shipment this month, shipments being at least 10 per cent from stock. Shipments of sheets merchant bars and wire products are rather light, but there has been some increase in the fortnight.

The unwieldy stocks accumulated by steel mills are being reduced, and thus production lags behind shipments, but production is increasing somewhat. Coke supplies have been increasing almost constantly, and blast furnaces are producing about 85 per cent of full output. There is not much market demand for pig iron, but many buyers are calling for heavier shipments on contracts.

Soft steel billets and sheet bars continue quiet, offerings being so limited. There is somewhat more request for shell discard steel.

The high standard of performance reported from by-product operators in last week's bulletin of the United States Geological Survey was equalled and even exceeded during the week ended March 16. The ratio of production to maximum capacity rose from 86.4 per cent during the preceding week to 87.7 per cent.

capacity which the by-product plants of the country failed to realize in actual output, 6.5 per cent was lost through lack of coal; 0.2 per cent because of labor trouble; 3.3 per cent on account of repairs to plants, and 2.3

per cent for all other causes. Maximum capacity as reported by the operator is the tonnage of coke of the grade he aims to produce, which he can make with all operating conditions favorable, and all ovens active.

Thus defined maximum capacity depends upon the grade of coke considered by the operator as his standard; a battery of ovens can produce more 17-hour coke than 24-hour coke.

A change in the grade of coke considered as standard will hereafter be accompanied by a change in maximum capacity.

Operating conditions in the several states varied but little from the performance of the week before. Kentucky was the only state to record a material decrease. The great improvement in by-product operation during the last two weeks is evidenced by the fact that the state reporting the least favorable conditions—New Jersey—is now operating at over 75 per cent of capacity.

SPORT STAND IS STILL INFORMAL

Dean Briggs of Harvard Explains New Plan Evolved at Yale Conference.

BIG GALA DAYS ABANDONED

Games Being Arranged to Satisfy Healthful Love of Sport Rather Than for Purely Spectacular or Financial Ends.

An explanation of the new stand on sport taken by Harvard, Yale and Princeton as the result of the conference, among Dean Le Baron Briggs, Professor Corwin and Dean McClenahan, is made by Dean Briggs in a statement in the Yale News. He declares that sport at the three colleges will be continued on an informal basis, with the exception of schedules. He adds that the term "informal" has been misinterpreted. The dean's statement follows:

"There was a general agreement in our conference as to the wisdom of our procedure with regard to athletics last fall, for we were all glad that the football interests were put aside and that the big games were dropped. If formal college sports are resumed they will be held on as inexpensive a basis as possible. They will not be scheduled for big gala days and will not be as publicly advertised as before, games being arranged with a view to satisfying a healthful love of sport rather than for purely spectacular or financial ends.

Upheld Military Interests.
The military organizations of the separate colleges and universities are now on a firm basis. By re-establishing formal athletics I think that we can relieve the unusual strain on the men and generally tone up the college spirit. It is, however, most important to keep the athletic interests interfering with the military duties or interests, and we must further see to it that the public does not misinterpret our action and continue to regard the games as the big events of the college year.

"The newspapers have decided the term 'informal' entirely too much, having quite missed its significance. By re-establishing formal athletics we do not in any way mean to feature athletic contests, nor do we propose to make athletics any less informal as regards their relation to military work. They will be more formal merely in the matter of the resumption of modified schedules with our old competitors. The change, I am sure, will show good results both in the military and athletic interests.

Players in Military Units.
The decision whether men not in the military organizations of their universities shall or shall not be able to play on the athletic teams of the coming season was left entirely to the authorities at each college, but I see no reason why the able-bodied man whom we pick to represent us in vigorous outdoor life should not be in the training military units. In fact, I think it is unfair to Yale to allow her opponents to use men not in the military organizations, and consequently we did not allow one member of the freshman hockey team to play against Yale in Saturday's game, nor will we allow such men to play on future Harvard teams."

McAvoy Gets an Exemption.
Catcher James McAvoy will be with the Athletics this year after all. He was drafted and ordered to an army camp, but a brother, who was left in support of his mother, became invalid and so the catchers was granted an exemption.

Spencer's New Coaching.
Ed Spencer, Detroit catcher, is coaching the Santa Clara University football team.

KENTUCKY'S BEST COLT STRANGLED TO DEATH

Monstrous, Kenneth D. Alexander's colt by Prospect Starry Night, which died at Douglas park of strangulation following an attack of distemper, was one of the most highly regarded two-year-olds in Kentucky. Mr. Alexander is serving with an ambulance corps in France and was notified by cable of his colt's demise.
Monstrous, one of the best bred of this year's list of youngsters, was said to have worked out in faster time than any two-year-old in the state, and was valued at $20,000.

GREATEST COLLEGE ATHLETE IN THE COUNTRY WILL FADE OUT OF SPORTS

When the senior cadets at West Point graduate next August, ten months ahead of time, the greatest all-around college athlete in the country will fade out of collegiate sports for the stern business of war.
Elmer Oliphant will never again defend the honor of the army on the gridiron, for his early graduation will rob him of one more year of football, and, if all his brother-cadets, who will graduate this year, he will become a commissioned officer in the army.
There are great athletes in every age, but few have ever been uncovered who have had the all-around ability in various branches of sports that Oliphant has.

LAW OF AVERAGE IN GAME OF GOLF

Does the law of average run true in golf matches? According to Charles Evans, national amateur and open champion, the answer is in the affirmative.
He claims that all persons must agree that accidents may in one disastrous moment sweep away the work of years, destroying health, happiness, even life itself; but, of course, this is a fact of possibility, not of greatest probability. In all ordinary conditions he believes that the race is to the swift and the battle to the strong.
All sorts of bad luck may delay success, but skill averages well in success in the long run in golf as well as all the important things of life.

PROMOTION FOR MAL BARRY

Mal Barry, star first baseman with the Milwaukee club of the American association, is making good as a soldier. He has been promoted to sergeant according to word received by A. F. ## THE PARAMOUNT.

"SHIRLEY KAYE"—A Select picture, in which Clara Kimball Young, the popular screen star, displays her versatility by creating a role different from the persecuted woman she has portrayed so often in the past, is being shown today. In this picture, from the successful play of the same name which is directed by Joseph Kaufman, Miss Young acts the role of Shirley, the vivacious daughter of Edgerton Kaye, president of the Great Union Central railroad. He holds his position through his descent from "Pirate" Kaye, who founded the line, rather than through any executive ability of his own. J. T. Magen, the brusque financier from the west, ably defeated by George Farwell, has bought the house next door to the Kayes; he cares not at all for society life of the east, while his wife is worried by her rosy servants, but his "sapper" daughter yearns with all her heart to break into the society swim, where Shirley Kaye reigns supreme. "T. J." and John Rowson, his young associate, who incidentally hates all women, especially easterners, secure a majority of the proxies of the Union Central shareholders, and the ousting of Edgerton Kaye is a matter of days. With breaking heart, he tells his daughter of the impending blow; she rises to the situation, and how she plays the society game, combining it with high finance to save the family fortune, is a stirring tale. At the same time she finally wins the love of John Rowson, which brings into the story the American business and social life an absorbing thread of heart interest. A selected comedy is also being shown. Monday, Harold Lockwood will be starred in "Broadway Bill," a Metro attraction.

THE ARCADE.

"DAVIS GIRL REVIEW." At the Arcade today and tomorrow Davis' Girl Review will present a musical skit called "The Patent Office." It is an original show full of pep and ginger with an added attraction, namely Evans' Harmony Trio, with a new line of jazz comedy that will appeal to all. Ruby Davis will sing "Struttern' Ball," and all the song numbers are brand new. Likewise a complete new wardrobe will be seen. Mr. Davis will feature his dancing chorus and each member will be heard or seen in a specialty. Mr. Davis' He-brey impersonations are very clever. The picture will be William S. Hart in "The Cold Deck." Coming next week is Zarrow's Polka Company featuring the Lynch Trio and Kellner and Kellner. The Lynch Trio were here with Zarrow's Variety Revue last August and took the town by storm. They are about the cleverest children of the American stage. This show is in keeping with the high standard of the top liners and from all reports is no best of Mr. Zarrow's companies and has class written all over it. An added attraction will be Lore, the Girl Mental Marvel, said to have a wonderful mind reading act. She was at New Castle two weeks ago and set the own wild. Altogether it looks like the best attraction and the biggest week in the history of the Arcade.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE COUNTESS CHARMING." Primarily a comedy, but containing a number of thrills, "The Countess Charming," Julian Eltinge's first Paramount picture will be shown today and tomorrow. This is the first appearance of the distinguished feminine impersonator on the screen and it is promised will bid fair to excel anything he has yet attempted. An especially entertaining comedy will also be shown. Monday, "The Lust of the Ages" a spectacular attraction, embracing a wholesome discourse on the evils of money grabbing; on the transitory picture side, it is a story within a story and contains a true portrayal of persons of wealth and social position. It deals with the material, as well as the spiritual effect through the ages past the havoc wrought by the insatiable desire to acquire world wealth.

THE SOISSON.

Yesterday at both performances of the Jack Ball Stock Co. in "The Girl of His Dreams" this popular company was greeted with two packed houses. The play has a good story to it, but, with the music, dancing and singing together with a few vaudeville acts makes up an evening of musical comedy supreme. Anyone wanting to see a good show, visit the Soisson this last half. There will be a big Saturday matinee, and tonight Country Store, when 50 valuable prizes will be given away. This is the last week of the Jack Ball Co. and all who haven't seen this popular company should take advantage of the next few days.

SHOPPING WITH MAIL ORDER HOUSE MUCH LIKE THE OLD GAME, BLIND MAN'S BLUFF

Do the merchants of this vicinity carry all articles that they should in their line of merchandising? We have heard much comment upon the question since the Buy at Home articles have been published.

Styles change over night, your dressmaker or tailor will tell you. Yes, the mail order houses have gowns and suits all catalogued, though they seldom have just what you order.

Take shoes for instance. How can a home merchant carry all the different styles, colors, shapes and kinds in stock. One of our home dealers recited a little experience he had with one of his woman customers recently. She saw a pair of shoes that he had in stock that were just right in size, but she decided that she wanted a different shade. The dealer informed her that he would send for the color she desired, which he did. The shoes came and were delivered to the woman's home.

About three weeks later the woman sent the shoes back to the store without even an explanation, stating that she did not want them.

Now was this fair to the home merchant? He went to the trouble and expense of ordering the shoes. He did not ask the woman for her money in advance, paid 30 cents in express charges and then did not sell the shoes.

How many men and women in this community do their shopping blindfolded. You don't have to shop blindfolded unless you want to. The out-of-town houses started the big game of Blind Man's Bluff. But it's a dangerous game for us to play in our town. It isn't a fair game.

Let us give the home merchant the first chance. Let us help keep our money at home and build up home industry. Start by having your printing done in Conneltsville.

Spring Suits Gracefully Economical

Four and a half yards, no more, but as much less as your ingenuity can manage with, that is the edict as to the allowance of wool for this spring's suits. Four and a half yards of 34-inch goods will make a suit on accepted lines for the woman of average figure. It almost goes without saying that skirts are a yard and a half to two yards wide, coats about 28 inches long and far belows conspicuous by their absence.

The new suits are excellent. Many of them are made of silk and many more of silk and wool combined and in others the accustomed order of things is changed, the suit is of silk and the trimmings and accessories—collar, cuffs, belt—of wool.

Two of the new spring suits, pictured above, are representative models. Since the appearance of the wool suit at the left of the two, coats have tended to grow shorter. It was among the earliest arrivals and compromised with the newest ideas by adopting a lengthened back panel which is laid in three shallow, foveated plaits.

At the right a suit made of peacock satin is handsomely finished with embroidery in the same color of silk. A shaped band of it about the waist, simulates a very graceful girle in the coat, and the bottom of the skirt is embellished with it. The liking for large buckles is revealed in a handsome circular one which is placed at the left side where the graceful coat fastens.

One wholly new spring suit in war time may be the meager allowance that our patriotism will concede, along with an easy conscience. But styles point the way to much remodeling and the transformation of last year's leftovers into this year's utility clothes.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

A waiter may not serve thoughtfully. He may be quick and neat and efficient. But when one caters too blameworthy to the 1st degree to tip him with a touch.

A VARIETY OF GOOD THINGS.

Try making Worcestershire at home. Put half an ounce of cayenne into a quart of the best vinegar. Peel and bruise three cloves of garlic, wash fine five anchovies, bruise 12 whole cloves and two blades of mace; mix all well and shake thoroughly. Cover tightly and let stand for a day or two. Then rub through a sieve, add two ounces of powdered mustard and put the mixture in a bottle well-corked; let stand for ten days, then bottle and seal.

Salt Codfish, Creole Style.—Soak a pound of salt cod in cold water, bring to the boiling point and then remove the fish. Put into a large saucepan two tablespoonsful of suet, add two finely-chopped onions, shake and cook over the fire; add a cupful of rice that has been partly cooked, the cod, a quart of tomato, salt and pepper to taste. Cook until the rice is tender, add a tablespoonful of butter and serve with creole sauce.

Boiled Tongue.—Boil a tongue which has been cured but a few days in the solution. Put on to boil and cook carefully until tender. Add a bay leaf, a clove of garlic, a small onion and a few cloves. When the tongue is cooked remove it from the stove and let it cool in its own liquor.

Fricassee of Fish.—Take a good-sized bass, carefully remove the skin, after cleaning the fish. Bone the fish and chop it fine. Cover all the bones and rough pieces with cold water—a pint or less will be sufficient—after it has cooked an hour. Beat three tablespoonsful of butter to a cream, add a cupful of soft bread crumbs to the pint of strained fish stock, stir, add butter which has been mixed with the yolk of an egg, two tablespoonsful of chopped parsley and pepper and salt to taste and a half tablespoonful of parmesan cheese. Add two tablespoonsful of flour; add fish and form into balls. Brown in a hot pan with a little butter, add some fish stock, cover and simmer for 10 minutes. Serve cold with any desired sauce.

Proof of the Matter. Gladly—The idea! And your doctor says that yawning will remove that annoying buzzing in one's ears.

Frances—That's true. The other night, after young Mr. Wilson had been talking steadily to me for three hours, I yawned twice and he went home.

Very Particular. Mrs. Swift—I hear Mrs. Prime is opposed to all sorts of society functions and entertaining.

Mrs. Smith—She is. She is that narrow-minded that she wouldn't even entertain an idea.

Just the Time. Husband (casually)—I see they are embracing pet dogs now.

Wife (Interestedly)—Oh, isn't that lovely! That's what I'll have done to Pido.

Hubby (enthusiastically)—Just the thing! Give him to me and I'll have it done today.

POOR DWELLING PLACE, THIS

British Naval Base of Wei-Hel-Wei Has Decidedly Few Attractions for European Residents.

Wei-Hel-Wei is the bit of Chinese territory that the British hold under lease as a naval and commercial base. It is just across the breadth of the Shantung peninsula from Kinkow. Wei-Hel-Wei lies partly on the mainland, partly on an island, where the dockyard, the coaling station and the rest of the machinery for a naval base are located. Most of the civilian population live on the mainland, and patronize a little steam launch that plies across the intervening sea when they want to go shopping; for with an eye to getting the British jackies' trade when warships put in to coal, the shops of Wei-Hel-Wei are out with the docks and the coal yards.

The island seen from the steam launch is a barren, sandy hill, ridged with gullies that the hurrying rain water has cut in its course to the sea. The sand of these hills is one of the omnipresent features of the colony; every wind that blows carries it about by pounds, and only the cheapness of Chinese servants makes it possible to keep a European household dusted.

The main street on the island has the characteristic British colonial look, with a British post office, a British steamship booking office, and British shops. On the short side street are the Chinese shops, which are only opened at certain seasons when visitors are plenty, or when a warship puts in to the harbor.

BITTER FIGHTS OVER BEARDS

Tartars and Persians Long in Conflict Because They Held Varying Opinions on the Matter.

Before now the wearing of beards has caused a bitter war and made the executioner's ax cut through many a neck. The Tartars waged a long war with the Persians, declaring them infidels because they would not shave their beards after the fashion of Tartary.

The Greeks wore beards until the time of Alexander, who ordered the Macedonians to be shaved lest their beards should give handles to their enemies. The ancient Romans wore beards, but in England they were not fashionable after the conquest until the thirteenth century and were discarded after the Restoration.

Peter the Great kept a squad of officers whose duty it was to cut the beards of unwilling citizens by force. Before 1840 shaving was almost universal in the United States.

There have been numerous instances of women with long masculine beards. Margaret of Savoy, daughter of Maximilian I, had a long stiff beard, and a woman was seen in Paris with a black bushy beard that reached to her waist. At the battle of Poltova the Russians captured a bearded woman, whose beard was given to the czar. She had a beard five and one-half feet long.

Just the Time. Husband (casually)—I see they are embracing pet dogs now.

Wife (Interestedly)—Oh, isn't that lovely! That's what I'll have done to Pido.

Hubby (enthusiastically)—Just the thing! Give him to me and I'll have it done today.

"WHY WOMEN CANNOT SLEEP."

The highly organized, finely strung nervous system of women subjects them to terrors of nervous apprehension which no man can ever appreciate. The peace of mind, the mental poise and calmness under difficulties, which are necessary for happy womanhood, are only possible when the sensitive organism is in a perfectly healthy condition. If there be any derangement in this respect no remedy in the world so completely restores womanly health as the wonderful "Favorite Prescription" discovered by Dr. Pierce, who early practiced medicine in Pennsylvania.

BEAVER SPRING, PA.—"I had been sick for several years with blind, dizzy spells, palpitation of the heart, pains in back of head, and at times weak, tired feeling and nervous spells. I tried several doctors but they failed to do me any good. As soon as I commenced to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, I began to get better—could sleep nights and that had, nervous feeling left. I took in all three bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription.'"—MRS. FRANK WAGNER.

The OFFICIAL LABORATORY MODEL IN AN EXQUISITE WALNUT CABINET

An actual photograph of Thomas Chalmers of the Metropolitan Opera Company singing in direct comparison with the New Edison. This is the famous tone test which proves that the voices of artist and instrument are indistinguishable.

Over 30 great artists have conducted these tests. More than 2,000,000 people have attended them. And in not one instance has a listener been able to note a shade of difference between the two renditions. Not one has succeeded in detecting when the living voice ceased and the instrument continued alone.

No instrument in its field approaches the New Edison in quality. That's plain to anyone who has ever heard it. But what I want to know is why. What are the scientific reasons? Often musicians ask this. It's a long story, too long to tell here. Mr. Edison's own Laboratory secrets enter into it. But there's more than that. It's largely a matter of an ideal—a policy of absolute insistence upon perfection.

Take the graceful William and Mary cabinet pictured at the left as an instance. When it was concluded to offer the Official Laboratory Model in walnut, in addition to the popular Chippendale Cabinet, the country's leading makers were asked to submit designs. Forty different sketches were received. They were carefully studied with the result that twenty-five were rejected. That left fifteen; every one of them a real masterpiece. But the Edison Company wanted the best, the one ultimate, perfect model. So, from each sketch, a sample cabinet was actually constructed. A jury then inspected them carefully and finally the model you see was selected.

This process of elimination characterizes every step in the design and manufacture of this wonderful instrument.

In fact the most expensive watch is no more rigidly inspected and carefully constructed than

LIFE HISTORY OF DANIEL WILLARD IS AN INSPIRING TALE

His Rise From Trackwalker to President of the B. & O. Railroad.

FORM BRILLIANT CAREER

Without Special Advantages, Education, Mental Gifts, Money or Influence, Daniel Willard, now President of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, has achieved a brilliant career.

Of all the industrial giants now connected with the railroad industry of this country none have had so interesting, so inspiring a career as Daniel Willard, now president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and generally admitted to be one of the greatest railroad men in the country today.

With no special advantages, no superior education, no unusual mental gifts, no physical advantages, no influential friends, no money to back him, this wonderful railroad magnate has risen to his present eminent position from the lowly place of track-walker, thereby demonstrating the heights to which the ambitious American may rise if he is willing to pay the price.

Born January 28th, 1851, at North Hardland, Vt., Daniel Willard's early life was spent on a 200-acre farm where he had to do more than the usual number of chores. When the work was not too heavy, he attended the village school with the neighbors' sons, and although not considered a phenomenal scholar by any means he completed his elementary education before most boys of his age.

At seventeen he graduated from high school at Windsor, Vt., and would have liked to satisfy his ambition to go to Dartmouth College. Unfortunately he could not raise the money to complete such a course so instead took a course at the Massachusetts Agricultural College, where tuition was free.

At eighteen Dan Willard found his first railway job as track walker for the Central Vermont railroad at 90 cents a day. In those days his ambition was to be a locomotive engineer, never did he dream of being president of a great railroad system in the years to come. The first step to achieve his ambition was attained, for, months later when he landed a job as a fireman on the old Rutland road in New England.

At twenty he was made engineer, and had apparently attained his ambition. His career might have ended there, but he was not satisfied. He had been the ruin of many young men who are easily satisfied, but at the end of two years Willard suddenly realized the danger of his position and decided to branch out.

At twenty-two he journeyed west and succeeded in securing a job as engineer on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern. The pay was $100 monthly but such colossal success was too good to last, for at the end of seven months the road was compelled to retrench and Engineer Willard was dropped.

At twenty-three, after spending four idle months in search of work, young Willard succeeded in securing a position with the "So" line which at that time had only half a mile of tracks and one engine. When the line had added forty-six miles of track he was made mechanical foreman, and his work included not merely making all necessary repairs, but keeping the coaches clean, relieving the engineer or conductor whenever occasion arose, and acting as telegraph operator.

Man of all work was his real job. He was on call 24 hours every day. Instead of eight hours a day, he was on duty six, when various parts of the system were brought together under one large organization Willard was made engineer for a passenger train out of Minneapolis. Soon his superiors, recognizing his potential ability, made him trainmaster and later he became assistant superintendent, but apparently it was impossible for him to stay in the men above him were young in years. Instead of sitting back and merely waiting for an opportunity that the future was certain to bring he devoted every minute to studying the railroad business from both the practical and theoretical side. He earned the appreciation and admiration of General Manager Underwood, and—

At thirty-eight Daniel Willard became assistant to Mr. Underwood, who had just been made general manager of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. The combination was very effective and Mr. Willard's railroad ability soon asserted itself to such an extent that he became one of the road's most valuable assets.

At forty-three Mr. Underwood was elected president of the Erie-Daniel Willard went along with him as "assistant to the president," a position which he made of great value and importance to the road. He lost no time in creating his proper place; he soon became first vice-president and before long held the title of general manager.

At forty-three Daniel Willard found that his ability had been recognized by James J. Hill, the "Grand Old Man" of American railroading, who offered him a princely income to operate the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy with the title of "vice-president in charge of operation," a position in which Mr. Willard soon demonstrated that the judgment of "the wisest railroader of them all" had not been misplaced. With each succeeding year Mr. Hill's estimate of Daniel Willard increased as the record of his achievements grew bigger and greater.

At forty-nine Mr. Willard was given the greatest task of his career when he was elected president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which at that time was so in need of assistance

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind, is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood, through the lymph ducts, excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, dependent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost unpalatable. You then resort to acetaminophen or the bromides which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of those irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar. If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphate hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.—Adv.

STOP CATARRH! OPEN NOSTRILS AND HEAD
Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Relieves Head-Colds at Once.

If your nostrils are clogged and your head is stuffed and you can't breathe freely because of a cold or catarrh, just get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head, soothing and healing the inflamed, swollen mucous membrane and you get instant relief.

Ah! how good it feels. Your nostrils are open, your head is clear, no more hawking, snuffling, blowing; no more headache, dizziness or struggling for breath. Ely's Cream Balm is just what sufferers from head colds and catarrh need. It's a delight.—Adv.

Doctor Alvarado's dentist's chair faced a full-length window, one of several which, after the Cuban fashion, opened directly upon the sidewalk, rendering both the waiting room and the office almost as public as the street itself. Every one of these windows was wide open when Johnnie arrived; but it seemed that the dentist, low what he was about, for when his patient had taken his seat and he had begun an examination of the troublesome tooth, he said, under his breath: "I, too, am watched. Talk to me in English. When I press, thus, upon your gum, you will know that someone is passing. Now, then, what is the meaning of your amazing message from Felipe?"

While Doctor Alvarado pretended to treat a perfectly sound molar, Johnnie managed, despite frequent interruptions, to make known the season and circumstances of his presence.

"But there are no rebels around here," Alvarado told him. "You could escape to the country perhaps but what then? Where would you go? How would they know who you are?"

"That's what I want to find out," The Cuban panted. "You'll have to go to Puerto Principe," he said at length. "Our men are operating in that neighborhood, and my brother Ignacio will know how to reach them. I'll give you a message to him, similar to the one you brought me from Felipe."

Then he smiled. "I've just thought of the very thing. Years ago I lent him a book which I particularly prized, and one of his children damaged it. I was furious. I declared I would never lend him another, and I never have. Now, then, I'll give you that very volume, and I'll give you say that I asked you to return it to him."

O'Reilly thanked him, promising to use every precaution in delivering the message. The next morning he paid Garbajal's score and took the train to the interior. In his bag was Tomas Alvarado's precious volume, and in the same coach with him rode the secret service man.

In its general features Puerto Principe differed little from the other Cuban cities O'Reilly knew. It was compactly built, it was very old and it looked its centuries in its streets were particularly narrow and crooked, having been purposely laid out in labyrinthine mazes, so the story goes, in order to fool the pirates.

As he sat in a cafe, sipping an orangeade, he heard someone speaking in an atrocious Spanish, and looked up to see that another American had entered. The stranger was a tall, slender young man, with pitted cheeks and hollow, burning eyes. O'Reilly stepped over to the table and introduced himself. "The hotel keeper in Neuvitas told me I'd find you here," he said. "Your name is—"

"Branch, Leslie Branch. So Garbajal said you found me here, eh? Oh, the crazy little liar. He didn't believe it. He thought his cook would have killed me, long ago, and it nearly did."

"Your Name is—"

This time Mr. Branch's bony frame underwent a genuine shudder and his face was convulsed with loathing. "Garbajal's in the secret service. Nice fat little spy."

"So I suspected." Mr. Branch's beverage appeared at this moment. With a flourish the waiter placed a small glass and a bottle of dark liquid before him. Branch sat at it, then rolled a fiercely smoldering eye upward.

"What's that?" he inquired. O'Reilly read the label. "It's biters," said he.

"Bitters? And I asked for yellow—a glass of agua with yellow." Branch's voice shook. "I'm dying of a fever, and this story-billed toucan brings me a quart of poison. Bullies!" It was impossible to describe the suggestion of profanity with which the speaker colored this innocuous expletive. "Weak as I am, I shall gnaw his windpipe." He bared his teeth suggestively and raised two talonlike hands.

The waiter was puzzled but not alarmed. He embraced himself as his customer had done, and shuddered, then pointing at the biters, he nodded encouragingly.

O'Reilly forestalled an outburst by translating his countryman's wants. "Un vaso de agua con hielo," said he, and the attendant was all apologies.

"So you speak the lingo?" marveled Mr. Branch. "Well, I can't get the hang of it. Don't like it. Don't like anything Spanish. H—l of a country, isn't it?—where the ice is yellow and the butter is 'meant to kill you,' and does."

O'Reilly laughed. "You've been studying a guide book, with complete glossary of Spanish phrases."

Mr. Branch nodded listlessly. "I'm supposed to report this insurrection, but the 'aulards won't let me. They edit my stuff to suit themselves. I'm getting tired of the force."

"Going home?" "Don't dare." The speaker tapped his concave chest. "Bum lungs. I came down here to shuffle off, and I'm waiting for it to happen. What brings you to Cuba?"

"I'm here for my health, too." The real invalid stared. "I have rheumatism."

"Going to sweat it out, eh? Well, there's nothing to do but sweat." Branch was racked by a coughing spasm that shook his reedy frame—"sweat and cough. Bullies! No mistake about that hospital, bark, is there?" When he had regained his breath he said: "See here! I'm going to take a chance with you, for I like your looks. My newspaper work is a bluff; I don't send enough stuff to keep me alive. I came here to cure my lungs, and—I want you to help me do it."

O'Reilly stared at the man in surprise. "How can I help you?" he asked.

"By taking me with you."

"With me? Where?"

"To the insurgents, of course."

The men eyed each other fixedly. "What makes you think—" O'Reilly began.

"Oh, don't say it! I've got a hunch! I don't know what your game is—probably dynamite; there's a story that the rebels have sent for some American experts to teach them how to use the stuff, and God knows they need instruction! Anyhow, I can't swallow that rheumatism talk. I thought you might give me a lift. Take me along, will you?"

"And how would that benefit your cough?" Tomas inquired, curiously.

Mr. Branch hesitated. "Well, I'll tell you," he said, after a moment. "I'm afraid to die this way, by inches, and hours. I'm scared to death. It seemed impossible that the sick man's cheeks could further blanch, but they became fairly livid, while a beading of moisture appeared upon his upper lip.

"Heaven! You've no idea how it gets on a fellow's nerves to see himself shipping—slipping! I'd like to end it suddenly, like that!" He voiced the last sentence abruptly and snapped his fingers. "Then, too, I'd like to have a thrill before I cash in—taste 'the salt of life,' as somebody expressed it. That's war. It's the biggest game in the world. What do you think of the idea?"

"Not much," O'Reilly said honestly. "Difference in temperament. I suppose it is a sick fancy, but I've got it. I'm a rotten coward, but I'll fight if the Cubans will take me."

"Where are the Cubans?" "Oh, they're out yonder in the hills. I know all about 'em. Come over to my quarters and I'll show you a map, if you're interested."

"I am," said O'Reilly, and, rising, he followed his new acquaintance.

CHAPTER VIII.

The Spanish Doubloon.

On the whole, Pancho Cueto's plans had worked smoothly. After denouncing the Varona twins as traitors he had managed to have himself appointed trustee for the crown, for all their properties, consummation for which he had worked from the moment he read that letter of Esteban's on the morning after Donna Isabel's death. That there was a treasure Cueto had never doubted, and, once the place was to do with as he chose, he began his search.

Commencing at the lower edge of the grounds, he ripped them up with a series of deep trenches and cross-cuts. It was a task that required the labor of many men for several weeks, and when it was finished there was scarcely a growing thing left upon the place.

Only a few of the larger trees remained. Cueto was disappointed at finding nothing, but he was not discouraged. Next he tore down the old slave barracks and the outbuildings, after which he completely wrecked the residence itself. He pulled it apart bit by bit, brick by brick. He even dug up its foundations, but without the reward of so much as a single peseta. Finally, when the villa was but a heap of rubbish and the grounds a scar upon the slope of La Cumbre, he desisted, baffled, incredulous, while all Matanzas laughed at him. Having sacrificed his choicest residence, he retired in chagrin to the plantation of La Joya.

But Cueto was now a man with a grievance. He burned with rage, and his contempt for the boy and girl he had wronged soared into hatred. In time he began to realize also that so long as they lived they would jeopardize his tenure of their property. Public feeling, at present, was high; there was intense bitterness against all rebels; but the war would end some day. What then? Cueto asked himself. Sympathy was ever on the side of the weak and oppressed. There would come a day of reckoning.

As if to swell his discomfort and strengthen his fears, out from the hills at the head of the Yumuri issued rumors of a little band of guerrillas, under the leadership of a beardless boy—a band of blacks who were making the upper valley unsafe for Spanish scouting parties.

During the name of Varona, Pancho Cueto aimed himself. He did not venture far alone, and, like Donna Isabel before him, he began to have bad dreams at night.

One day a field of Cueto's cane was burned, and his laborers reported seeing Esteban and some negroes riding into the wood. The overseer took horse within the hour and rode pell-mell to Matanzas. In the city at this time was a certain Colonel Cobo, in command of Spanish volunteers, those execrable convict troops from the Isle of Pines whose atrocities had already marked them as wolves rather than men, and to him Pancho went with his story.

"Ah, yes! That Varona boy, I've heard of him," Cobo remarked, when his caller had finished his account. "He has reason to hate you, I dare say, for you robbed him." The colonel smiled disagreeably.

Mr. Robert Williams,
Colesburg, Mo.

December 27th, 1917.

Dear Sir:

You are right when you say in your letter of December 24th that Senreco is a remarkably good tooth paste and that it has a strong story to tell, but the difficulty lies in putting that story in such language as will convince the public.

The Senreco story of a medicinal paste that not only cleanses the teeth but also keeps mouth and gums healthy, when put on paper does not sound very different from the story of just any ordinary dentifrice.

For that reason we make every effort to get the people to try Senreco. After that Senreco tells its own story—and fully 90% of them are Senreco users and boosters from then on.

There is a Senreco user in Pittsburgh who has introduced our product into the families of thirty-four of his friends. Enthusiasm? No, not entirely. Simply a case of Senreco making good. It is just as stated above. If they will try Senreco—if they once become acquainted with a real dentifrice—with what a dentifrice and should be—they are Senreco boosters from that time on.

Your druggist or toilet counters can supply you with Senreco. It comes in large, two ounce tubes and retails at 25¢.

Why not get a tube to-day? Try it. We stand behind every package of Senreco with a money-back guarantee.

Very truly yours,
SENRECO,
CINCINNATI.
